LOCAL MATTERS.

We regret that owing to a delay unavoidable in our office, THE NEWS failed to reach its subscribers on the line of the South Carolina Railroad yesterday. Hereafter we trust nothing of the kind will occur; at all events we shall use our utmost exertions to prevent it.

PRICES CURRENT.—The Daily News' Prices Current will be ready for delivery this morning at an early hour, and will contain, besides the usual amount of interesting commercial matter, tables showing the commerce of the port for the past month.

LAZY MAN'S LOAD.—Why do the drivers of the scavenger carts so often overload them? What is the use of piling more offal on a cart than it will hold, and then spilling it out all along the route? Yesterday carelessness of this kind was productive of a most offensive nuisance in a respectable part of Meeting street, and the inhabitants complained loudly of the imposition. Let our policemen be on the lookout for the carters who carry a lazy man's load and report them. This way of doing their duty is worse than doing it at all, and deserves the imposition of a heavy penalty, which would round to the good of the policeman and the city.

FIRE.—An alarm of fire was sounded at 4 A. M. yesterday morning, and smoke was seen issuing from the roof of the house at the northwest corner of Spring and St. Philip streets, owned by Mr. D. J. HATCHER. The first alarm was given by the Marion House, but as that engine was soon on the spot, fortunately the flames were extinguished with but a trifling loss. The fire was altogether accidental and was supposed to have originated from a defective stove or a spark.

This portion of the city is composed altogether of wooden buildings, and had the fire not have been discovered so soon, the consequences would have been very disastrous.

THE BATTERY.—It is enough to make a Charlestonian feel sad to walk on the Battery in its present dilapidated condition. It looks like the garden of a bankrupt or a sluggish, neglected and gone to waste. The grass grows green over its walks, and there are holes in it that the mounds would not suffice to fill. Many people complain that its being frequented by colored people renders it no longer a pleasant resort, and that it is not worth while to spend any more money on it; but if we are to adopt that doctrine we will have no public walks, gardens, parks, nor anything at all of that sort, for the freedmen can go anywhere.

THE NEW POSTOFFICE.—The selection of a position for the postoffice was most judicious. The building now used presents a neat and business-like appearance, and affords an abundance of room for carrying on the affairs of the postoffice, besides leaving a sufficiently large place for the audience to stand. The night box is on the left hand side of the main entrance, and there is a separate box for drop letters. Special care has been taken to accommodate the ladies, and a separate entrance is prepared for them, with a private stairs at the side of the building. The whole arrangement reflects great credit on the Postmaster, and if the mails and delivery thereof were as well arranged as the postoffice, there would no longer be any ground of complaint in that direction.

GOOD DISPATCH.—The steamship Kingfisher, Captain Harris, sailed yesterday for Baltimore, with 600 bales cotton and considerable quantities of other merchandise. The Kingfisher is the first vessel of the new Baltimore Line. She arrived here on Sunday last, with a large cargo, and although the weather, part of the time since, has been unfavorable, Messrs. COURTNEY & THENIOLM, her agents, succeeded in getting a full cargo for her. A part of this cotton is bound through to Liverpool, Messrs. COURTNEY & THENIOLM giving through bills of lading to that point, to be re-shipped by the Baltimore and Liverpool steamship line.

THE ELLIOTT SOCIETY OF NATURAL HISTORY.—At the regular annual meeting of this Society, held last night at the Charleston College, the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year:

PRESIDENT: Professor LEWIS R. GIBBES.
VICE-PRESIDENTS: Professor FRANCIS S. HOLMES.
ROBERT HUNT, Esq. [R. Rev. BISHOP LYNNOL]
DR. EDMUND HAVENEL [DR. L. A. FRAMPTON].
RECORDING SECRETARY: Dr. J. F. M. GEDDINGS.
SECRETARY: Dr. GEORGE E. TRESKOT.
TREASURER: W. H. MAYOR, Esq.
COMMITTEE OF OPERATIONS: Professor JOHN MCGRADY, Dr. J. P. CHAZAL, Dr. GEO. E. TRESKOT, Dr. P. G. ROBINSON, Dr. G. E. MANIGAUULT.

PARADE OF A COLORED FIRE COMPANY.—Yesterday afternoon the streets were temporarily blocked by a dense crowd of freed-people—men, women, boys and babies—who accompanied a colored fire company which was parading. When one could get a glimpse of the company through the throng of darkies, which was very rare, it was seen to be the Niagara. It mustered about thirty men, nicely dressed in a uniform of blue shirts turned down with red, black pants, and the usual fireman's hat. They had a fine banner of blue silk, on which was printed, in gilt letters, the name of the company, the date of its organization, and their motto—"Ever Ready." A colored band was in attendance, which accounts for the crowd. The company behaved with the greatest propriety, and even the accompanying crowd made no unseemly noise.

RETURNING REFUGEES.—It is not as frequent a sight now as it was this time last year, but still you can often see even now, at the depot of the South Carolina Railroad, being unloaded from the trains, the furniture, bedding, household utensils and trunks of refugees who are just returning to the city after an absence of three, four, or even five years. Examine these remnants of property, and you can see at a glance what they once were and what they now are. The history of removals and of hard usage is written indelibly and unmistakably upon them in scratches, bruises, and breakage. The history of the furniture is the history of the family. They, too, are dilapidated. They are older. They are no longer whole. An old member has gone to rest in his appointed time, or the sword has cut off the gallant son in the bloom of youth, or a daughter has succumbed to unwonted hardships. Still the remnant of the family brings the remnant of the property back to Charleston, to the old city, to the much loved home. They are here once more, and the horrors of refugee life are for a moment forgotten. The trading of furniture, clothes, and jewelry, at one-fourth their value, to hard-fisted old farmers for corn at two or three prices, is like a troubled dream. The church spires, the long streets, the shop windows, the moving panorama of vehicles and pedestrians, the rattling of wheels, the beating of hammers, the cries of fishermen, in short, all the familiar sights and sounds of city life, seem so natural, so exactly the same as they did years ago, that they seem for a moment never to have been away. But city people can never entirely forget the miseries of a forced life in the backwoods, and we believe implicitly that to whisper the word up-country in the ear of a sleeping ex-refugee would give him the nightmare.

MARON'S COURT.—One of the Green Islanders having a fondness for the juke, took a drop too much and performed several fantastic maneuvers in Market-street, to the edification of an appreciative audience. According to recent regulations, a public dance costs something, and many was bagged by a stray policeman. She asserted in piteous tones that it was not her fault, as the last taste made her sing and frolic, and besides she had four children home dependent on her. Justice could not be hoodwinked in this way, and Marj was charged $5 as the fruit of her transgression.

An ugly African with an ironical countenance, went into the hardware business and stole a quantity of old iron from the dredging machine at one of the wharves. His case was referred to a magistrate.

A dorky, ambitious of profferment, endeavored to force his way on Alder's wharf contrary to regulations, and was fined $5 for the effort.

As the Circus is now coming equestrian performances are all the vogue, and a drayman, inspired with lofty and inspiring thoughts, made the sidewalk, near the Artesian Well, his course. But, like love, it did not run smooth, as he was arrested in his mad career by a star, and carried to the Judge's stand, where a fine of $5 was awarded as the result of his performance.

Elliott street is such a classic locality that it is seldom anything good turns up there. In the present instance one of its denizens, inflamed by lightning whiskey, commenced whooping and yelling in a terrible manner. The guardians of the night were alarmed, and smothered the songster in a cell. His notes were so bad, and the whole entertainment such a failure, that he had to pay $10 for his first lesson. The price was high and money scarce, so he was jugged.

One of the old habits of the Guard House, and who has been there so often that he is considered a regular boarder, was caught again on a heavy drunk. Rosa had nothing to say; language was incapable of expressing her feelings, and she hung her head in silence. $10 was sternly read out as her punishment, and she droopingly departed, looking like the Last Rose of Summer.

NEW FIRM.—We invite attention to the card of Messrs. W. Y. LITTON and R. S. BRUNS, who have formed a copartnership in business; Mr. LITTON is well known to the public as lately the Surveyor of this port, who resigned his position because he could not take the iron-clad test oath. Mr. BRUNS is favorably known as having been the head of the house of BAUNS & BEE. Both gentlemen, therefore, are too well known to the public to require further notice from THE DAILY NEWS.

SAVANNAH STEAMERS.—Attention is directed to the advertisement of Messrs. FERGUSON & HOLMES, announcing the opening of a new line of steamers between Charleston and Savannah.

CATARACT.—For this prevalent complaint, Dr. NORTON'S new remedy is advertised by Drs. RAOUX & LYMAN, corner of King and Market streets.

HAVE YOUR LIKENESS TAKEN at the Star Gallery, by HARLOW, the artist. See advertisement.

Spread the Truth!

Some medical men insist that it is undignified to advertise a remedy, however valuable it may be. Quer reasoning this. It is like saying that an article which the world needs should be hid in a corner—that benefits and blessings may be too widely diffused—that the means of protecting and restoring health should be a close monopoly, and not accessible to all. The argument is bad. It is worse than that; it is inhuman. Suppose HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS—an absolute specific for Dyspepsia, biliousness and nervous debility—had never been known beyond the repertoire of the faculty, what would have been the consequence? Instead of curing and invigorating millions, the good effects of the preparation would have been confined to a comparative few. There is the highest authority for saying that light should not be hid under a bushel; that whatever is excellent should be placed as a city on a hill, where all men can take cognizance of it. It is upon this principle that the BITTERS have been advertised, and continue to be advertised, in every newspaper of any prominence in the western hemisphere, and that the spontaneous testimonials in its favor have been translated into all written languages. Thousands enjoy perfect health to-day who would be languishing on beds of sickness if the newswaper had not spread the truth with regard to this unequalled invigorant and corrective far and wide. Suppose profit had been reaped from this publicity? Is that any argument against it? If the public health has been protected; if lives have been saved; if the feeble have been strengthened and the sick restored, great good has been accomplished; and who so mean as to grudge to exertions thus directed their fair reward?
